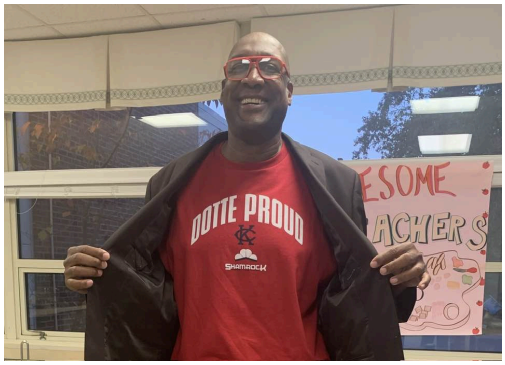
What's all the hype?



The 20 & Counting Project was established in June 2023 by Wyandotte High School alumnus (Class of 1982) and University of Kansas alumnus (Class of 1986) Calvin Thompson, with the support of fellow Wyandotte alumni and friends.

The project's name honors the 20 boys' basketball state championships won by the Wyandotte Bulldogs — a total that ranks 5th among all U.S. public high schools. What began as a way to honor Wyandotte High School's incredible basketball legacy has grown into a movement. Fueled by passionate alumni and friends, the 20 and Counting Project is dedicated to celebrating the past, inspiring the present, and building opportunities for the future.

Our mission is simple: honor excellence, unite generations, and invest in the next wave of Bulldogs. We are committed to preserving the rich history of Wyandotte basketball while creating new traditions that will inspire for decades to come.

🔷 From the Coach's Desk

The season is almost here! After weeks of hard work in the gym, our team is ready to compete. The off season is about setting the tone, sharpening fundamentals, and proving that Wyandotte Basketball continues to live up to the "20 And Counting" legacy. Thank you for showing up big at the scrimmage — your energy fuels us. Coach Anthony Spencer

🔷 Alumni Corner

A special congratulations to Tre Maddox, member of Wyandotte's 1985 State Championship team, as he enters his 13th season as a NBA referee. Tre has officiated 644 regular-season games and 31 playoff games in 12 seasons as an NBA staff official. He made his playoff debut as an NBA referee in 2019.

He considers his most memorable NBA assignment to be his first game: a double-overtime matchup between the LA Clippers and the Utah Jazz on Nov. 6, 2010. Maddox officiated four seasons in the NBA G League and six years at the collegiate level in the Pac-12, West Coast and PacWest conferences. He also has eight years of high school officiating experience. A shining example of Bulldog pride carrying on beyond high school.
